

Exam. Code: 0658

Sub. Code: 4831

1046

L.L. B. First Semester

Paper-I: Jurisprudence

Time allowed: 3 Hours

Max. Marks: 80

NOTE: Attempt Five questions in all including Q. No. 1 (Unit-I) which is compulsory and selecting atleast two questions from each Unit II-III. All questions carry equal marks.

x-x-x

Unit -I

1. Write short notes on the following:

- i) Relationship between law and morality
- ii) Pure theory of law
- iii) Kinds of legislation
- iv) Rudolph Von Ihering

(4x5)

Unit -II

2. "Jurisprudence is not united by particular methods or perspectives. It includes work grounded in the diverse perspectives of various social and human sciences and of many kinds of philosophy, as well as other Intellectual disciplines." In the light of above statement discuss the nature and scope of jurisprudence. (15)
3. Do you agree with the statement that Professor Herbert Lionel Adolphus Hart has revived, reshaped and reformed analytical positivism in 20th century? Critically analyse the 'rule theory' of Hart in comparison with other Positivists. (15)
4. Do you agree with Henry Maine that the movement of progressive societies has hitherto been from status to contract? Examine the correctness of this theory in Indian society. (15)
5. 'Natural law is the oldest as well as most modern law'. Critically examine. (15)

Unit- III

6. What do you mean by the concept of 'social engineering' as formulated by Roscoe Pound? Discuss with suitable example the utility of social engineering for jurists under Indian scenario. (15)
7. What is Realism? Discuss in detail the salient features of American and Scandinavian Realist Schools of jurisprudences. (15)
8. What are the essentials of a valid custom? Critically analyse the Importance of custom as in law making in modern India. (15)
9. Do the judges make laws? Discuss the Importance of Judicial precedent as a source of law in India? (15)

x-x-x